

COUNTRY GUIDE

PUERTO RICO

After being ceded to the U.S. as a result of the Spanish-American War, Puerto Rico became an unincorporated territory of the U.S. in 1898. Facing the challenges of recuperating its economy from a recession and recovering from the damage caused by hurricane Maria, Puerto Rico still provides many advantages for businesses.

TAX INCENTIVES

Companies engaged in certain activities may qualify for reduced tax rates (4% with a withholding rate on royalty payments of 12%, 4% fixed income tax rate on Incentive Development Income, 4% on export services income, etc.), deductions and credits.

REAL ESTATE INVESTMENT

Puerto Rico's government created opportunity zones that allow companies to defer taxes on their investments until 2026, potentially reducing the amount owed by as much as 15%. Additionally, if the investment is kept for at least 10 years, companies are not required to pay capital gains taxes on appreciation.

LIFE SCIENCES

Puerto Rico is one of the most important biopharmaceutical manufacturing centers in the world, with many of the top multinational pharmaceutical companies operating on the island. Its workforce is highly knowledgeable in life sciences and offers the lowest labor cost of any U.S. jurisdiction.

ENERGY INNOVATION

Due to the devastation caused by hurricane Maria, the island is building a new energy grid, providing an opportunity for innovation. Puerto Rico's government signed a bill committing to power the island solely by renewable energy by 2050.
