

Copyright Assignment

Wolters Kluwer requires you to assign to us the copyright in the article on the following basis:

1. You assign to us your right of title and interest in and to the copyright in the article for any and all Wolters Kluwer publications while retaining all rights to use and share on a non-commercial basis your interest in and to the copyright in the article.
2. You acknowledge that the article may be used, changed and reproduced by Wolters Kluwer in any way Wolters Kluwer chooses and any format or medium that Wolters Kluwer chooses in so far as those changes are to reflect Wolters Kluwer style or correct matters of grammar or clear expression. Wolters Kluwer acknowledges that all matters of material content including accurate referencing are the responsibility of the author and will not be changed without the author's consent.
3. You warrant that you own the copyright in the article and that the article does not infringe any other person's copyright.
4. You agree that we have to attribute authorship of the article to you in Wolters Kluwer publications.
5. Wolters Kluwer agrees and consents to you retaining an non-exclusive, non-transferable royalty-free licence to use the article or any part of the article on a case by case basis (for example, the material may be used by you for academic purposes (such as lecturing), private use (excluding profit), teaching purposes, professional advice to clients and as part of non-commercial instructional publications), subject to the following conditions:
  - (a) you obtain Wolters Kluwer's consent prior to publication of any part of the article;
  - (b) Wolters Kluwer consents to you uploading a copy of the article as published to ResearchGate, Scopus and/or Google Scholar on or after the date two months subsequent to the date Wolters Kluwer originally publishes the article in electronic form, provided that the article uploaded to ResearchGate, Scopus and/or Google Scholar includes the statement referred to below at paragraph 5(c);
  - (c) should any part of the article be reproduced, you agree to acknowledge publication in the Journal in the following format:

“Reproduced with the permission of Wolters Kluwer. Originally published in the Journal of Health, Safety and Environment Volume 37(2), 2021. For more information see <http://www.wolterskluwer.com/en-au/>”; and
  - (d) you indemnify Wolters Kluwer from all liability resulting from any loss or damage that arises from your use of the article. Wolters Kluwer and its authors, consultants and editors expressly disclaim all liability and responsibility to any person in relation to the use of the article or any part thereof.

---

AUTHOR

---

DATE